Documentation Guide

Based on The Chicago Manual of Style, 16th ed. REF Z253 .U69 and A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses and Dissertations: Chicago Style for Students and Researchers, 8th ed., by Kate Turabian. REF LB2369 .T8

NOTES & BIBLIOGRAPHY

Guidelines:

Chicago has two systems of documentation, Notes and Bibliography and Author-Date. Notes and Bibliography is generally used in literature, history and the arts. The author-date system is more often used in the physical and natural and social sciences.

In Notes and Bibliography, each source cited must appear in the notes – either endnotes or footnotes. The bibliography may include all these sources along with other sources consulted but not cited. On the other hand, you might not have a bibliography at all if your notes are complete. Check with your professor for preferences.

In Author-Date, each source cited will be acknowledged with a parenthetical citation. The References at the end will give complete bibliographic information. All sources in the References must be cited in the paper.

Paper layout

- Double space throughout, with no extra space between paragraphs.
- Use 1" margins on all sides. Margin should be left justified.
- Single space after all punctuation.
- Chicago style does not have a recommended font; however, a serif style such as Times New Roman and a font size of 10-12 are advisable.
- References or Bibliography should be at the end of the paper.

NOTES:

- Number consecutively. Indent the first line.
- Use full note citation the first time the title appears. In subsequent entries, use a shortened note citation.
- In shortened notes, use shortened titles if the title is more than four words. The Civitas Anthology of African American Slave Narratives could be shortened to Civitas Anthology or to Slave Narratives. 14.28
- Notes in text are superscript, numbered consecutively at the end of a sentence or phrase and after the punctuation.² In Word, use References/ Insert Footnote. 14.20-23.
- If the same source is noted twice or more, it gets a new number each time. If it immediately follows the other (with no different sources in between) use ibid. and the new page numbers. 14.29.
- Notes can also serve as an explanation. 2. Nat Turner believed God had chosen him to lead his people out of slavery.
- Single space each entry. Double space between entries.

BIBLIOGRAPHY:

- A bibliography will list all sources consulted even if not cited.
- Bibliographies list sources alphabetically by the first author's last name, or, if there is no author, by the title. All authors (up to ten) are used. Over ten, use only the first seven. 14.76
- Use a hanging indent.
- Annotated Bibliographies use a bibliographic entry followed by a description of the work. Length can vary. 14.59
- With complete notes, a bibliography may not be needed. Consult your professor for preferences.
- Single space each entry. Double space between entries.

JOURNALS:

- Use a DOI when available. A DOI (digital object identifier) is a number assigned to an article at publication that will permanently identify that article. You can put a DOI into a DOI resolver to find the article. Try it at <http://dx.doi.org/>.
- Use a stable URL if there is no DOI. Many databases have a stable URL available, but it can be hard to find. In EBSCO databases, it is called permalink. In JSTOR, you find it on the results page under the item information tab. In Project Muse, just use the article URL.
- Use the database name if there is no DOI or stable URL.
