to introduce that real-world experience to students’ education as early as possible,” Wang said.

She was hired as the location’s first full-time engineering professor. Here, Wang enjoys the educational student plays and musicals, many of which have won awards at theater festivals.

Wang was not just an engineering professor, but also a theater professor a few months later. He uses his varied experience in both stage work and performance, audio engineering or music education – all of these different fields. I’ve been
